THE SILVER NICKEL

Ripley won't believe this one: There is more silver in the nickel than in the dollar. Since silver has been substituted for copper in the nickel, 20 of them (a dollar's worth) contain 16 ounces of silver, while the dollar contains only .77 ounces—less than half as much.

This fact can only be a minor fiscal oddity, however, as there is a law against anyone melting coins—and what would you do with the silver anyway—Orlando Sentinel.

TYPICAL AMERICANS

Whatever may be said for the state of alertness of the military forces in Hawaii at the time of Japan's sudden attack, newspaper jabs arriving from Hawaii seem to suggest that those forces were about as alert as the Hawaiian people and congress itself thought necessary.

On Thursday, Dec. 4, four days before the attack, the Honolulu Star-Bulletin carried the news that the house military affairs committee had pigeonholed a bill authorizing the president to declare martial law in Hawaii and Puerto Rico. Chairman May is represented as having done this in deference to Hawaiian sentiment as presented by its delegate, Sam King. The islands didn't like to see the military by-passed civilian authority. The same paper carried an editorial criticizing the same civilian authority for "inaction" and "lethargy."

If we ever needed further proof that Hawaiians are typical Americans, with the same point of view, the same complacent mind that has afflicted all America here it is. It suggests that whatever complacency the military authorities showed it was widely shared in circles as high as congress itself.—NEA Editorial.

FOOD RELATIVELY CHEAP

Believe it or not, food is cheap—cheaper than it ever was. The housewife will object and her spouse will know, that commodity prices have been rising. But the fact remains that in relation to incomes—which is the only way to figure a small percentage of the average family's income. Never before is to say, since including 1913 which is as far back as records of this kind go.

The cost of all food to the average non-farm family for food has fluctuated in the vicinity of 30 percent of its income. In the first three years of the other world war food the average family 32 per cent of its income. At the bottom of the worst depression in American history, 1932, food was taking 29 per cent of the family income. Commodity prices were cheaper than they are now, but incomes also were lower.

True, food prices have been rising lately but they have not been rising at anything like the rate of average incomes. During 1941, by virtue of the rise in incomes, and a relatively smaller rate of increase in food prices at retail, the average cost of food fell to the historic low of 23 per cent. Even in December of last year, when commodity prices were surging ahead to new high levels for recent years, the cost of food at retail was only 25 per cent of income.

By December of last year the average non-family income amounted to $1,933 and its food cost $461 at retail. For all of 1941, the average family income was $1,813. The income was the best since 1929. The December, 1941 rate of income was better than 1929 and the best for the entire period from 1913.

These are estimates of the typical working family of 4.9 persons, representing the average obtained in the 1918-19 survey of living survey of the U.S. bureau of labor statistics. The survey showed average family income amounted to $1,513 in 1918; food expenditures for the average family amounted to $548 per family in 1918.

The schedule calls for Miami departure at 9 o'clock and arrival in Havana 20 minutes and 226 miles later. The return trip leaves Havana at 10 o'clock and arrives in Miami at 12:30, a 1-1/2 hour trip. Actually the trip takes 1 1/2 hours each way.

About CANDIDATES
 And Would-be Candidates in Races, State and Local Offices

The editor of this newspaper has been trying for several weeks to get some of the county and state candidates for public office to say something. So far, they have been stalling out about as much conversation as a clam. They just won't talk. It's hard to figure out why.

Not being able to get any commitments out of prospective candidates in Palm Beach county I went into the neighboring county of Hendry on this week looking for political dope. I found some.

Over in Hendry at Clewiston the cashier of the First Bank of Clewiston—Albert Stewart—is serious by convincing making the race for state senator in the 21st district—composed of Hendry, Lee, Collier and Monroe counties. The present state senator—David Edgar Ward, a son-in-law of former governor Doyle Carlton—is planning a race for reelection. Albert Stewart is a former sheriff of Lee county. Bob King, Jr. of Stewart enters the race it will make it a three-cornered affair and one worth watching.

Mr. Stewart has served Hendry for many terms in the lower house of the legislature and has an enviable reputation for fairness. That he has been a capable member of that body has been proved by the fact that he has held important committee assignments in the House of Representatives at Tallahassee. Mr. Stewart's opinions are always considered sound and when he takes the floor in behalf of passage of a bill those colleagues of his know that the particular bill must be a worthy one or he wouldn't be fighting for it.

Here at home there will be several important offices to fill. Representatives Russell O. Morrow and Herbert D. Beck will come up for reelection. However, neither of them has made known his intention to seek a seat in the lower house at Tallahassee. J. Louis Carter, clerk of the criminal court, second, comes up for reelection this time.

All five county commissioners will have to seek favor of the voters if they expect to be returned to office. C. F. Byrd, deputy clerk, may usually have some opposition but in past years he has been able to emerge the winner. Johnny Preston in the Jupiter, Kelsey City-Riveria section always come out a winner. If Mike Palm Beach Zeke Cornelius may have opposition this time. It is said that Lake Lytle will be his opposition.

Here in the Glades district where Doyle Crocker has been elected four times there is little talk of opposition for him.

Those of you who have not registered may do so now. The registration books are in each precinct ready for you to sign. Better do that today before you forget it.

The congressional race in this the fourth district may prove to be an interesting affair before primary election day. Congressmen Cannon has some opposition in the person of Guy Stovall who says he is a candidate. Last Sunday's Miami Daily News carried an interesting story about the possibility of Mark Wilcox opposing Cannon in the forthcoming race. Mark, you know, served the fourth district capably and has thousands of friends who will fall into his camp if he offers to make the race.

Mr. Mounts was introduced by James Harry Wilkinson, program chairman, and spoke on the cattle industry in Palm Beach county. He was optimistic over the outlook and possibilities of future growth of this particular industry. An inter-city meeting of the Belle Glade club and the Pahokee club will be held in the near future and plans for such a meeting were discussed.

James M. Owens, Jr., county tax assessor, was in the Glades on business on Tuesday of this week. He was an invited guest at the regular weekly meeting of the Pahokee Lions club while here.

A. O. Walker, prominent South Bay grower and mayor of that town, who has been seriously ill for several weeks in the Everglades Memorial hospital, was removed to the Jackson Memorial hospital in Miami last week. Reports from his bedside are to the effect that he is showing some improvement.

Cross-State Waterway Boosted

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Chairman J. J. Mansfield of the House rivers and harbors committee Tuesday informed State Senator Ernest Graham, Miami's special envoy, that the proposed deepening of the Port Myster canal at St. Petersburg is considered essential as a military project at present and will be urged when the rivers and harbors bill comes to the house floor.

The Texas chairman, who said he has given his approval to the project, indicated sympathetically that Graham outlined South Florida's efforts to use this canal for small boats and barges as a protected link between the Gulf and the intercoastal canal at St. Petersburg. Graham said the canal can be improved to a minimum depth of eight feet with a minimum width of 50 feet "suitable for large travel" for only $208,000, according to army engineers. This compared with a large canal proposed for the cross-state route in lieu of the $200,000,000 or more for the ship canal originally proposed.

Encouraged after his talk with Chairman Mansfield, arranged by Representatives Pat Cannon and J. Edwin Peterson, Graham plans additional talks with interstate commerce commission officials handling water-borne traffic. The Miami special representative has written home for information which will form the basis of a possible sorghum planting program in south Florida for the production of alcohol. He has obtained details of a similar program in Louisiana and said he plans to propose before the department of agriculture if it appears feasible.

Discuss Ways And—

country. It's quite a technical job separating the tin from the other metal in the can. With the enormous flow of cans coming in from any tin can collecting campaign, those existing plants would be swamped. Cans would rot before they could be processed. So it looked like an impossibility to reclaim America's tin cans from its households. Instead, a far simpler solution was found. The government went to the other end of the tin can problem and started taking the desperately needed tin and steel away from the tin can companies. So they make the tin cans that can be found must be used in making our tanks and guns rather than tin cans.

Taking of the metal will not mean that you won't be able to buy canned food any more. Instead, food preservers will be compelled to use glass, perhaps old fashioned fruit jars, or cardboard for containers in which to send you your canned goods. Part of the answer for substitute containers lies in that waste paper banded in your basement, of which you'll tell you never want week.

Army-To Purchase Perishable Foods

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 19.—The Orlando quartermaster market center is expected greatly to increase its buying of perishable foods in this section as result of the consolidation of purchases by the army, navy and marine corps. The joint purchases are scheduled to begin in 30 to 60 days and will include such foods as fresh fruits and vegetables, meats, poultry, eggs, butter and cheese. The center was established here last fall to handle buying for the army.

John A. Martin of Eastis, assistant director of purchases for the war production board, said the tin conservation regulation is of vast importance to Florida's fresh fruit and vegetable industry in that it will result in a greater demand for fresh produce. "It is understood," Martin said, "that the army will issue instructions to the effect that maximum use be made of fresh foods or foods preserved in a manner other than tin, and that the minimum use be made of fresh fruits and vegetables whenever they can be obtained."

Jones To Attend State Meeting

Claude Jones, member of Pahokee high school and state president of the Future Farmers of America, was in Canal last night where he spoke before a group of FFA workers. Today he is going on to Tallahassee where he will represent Pahokee chapter of the FFA at a meeting of state workers to discuss what their respective groups can do in national defense.

OFFICES MOVED

Offices of the Pahokee Canal Point Defense Council have been moved into the new city hall, it was announced this week. The defense work will be carried on in the new auditorium recently completed. The Pahokee city council had hoped to provide space for the public library but found that this cannot be done at present. A sewing room for defense council work was also provided in the new city hall.

At the meeting of the council last Friday night the city council voted to donate $25.00 to help defray expenses of the Pahokee high school band to the annual state band contest to be held in Deland next month. The salary of Marvin Lewis, fire chief, was raised to $30 weekly and the salary of L. J. Frazier of the sanitary department was raised to $27.50 weekly.
